Sofia delle Cese : General Outline

The topic of PAMUN 2017 was Working towards a New World Order. Five students of Leonardo Da Vinci High School in Paris (BURATTI ANTONIO, DELLE CESE SOFIA, FIORINI DAVIDE, FIORINI MARTA, RIGAMONTI MATILDE) represented the delegation of Guatemala in five of the nine committees: the Political Committee, Environmental Committee, UNESCO, Human Rights Committee and ECOSOC, over the weekend of December 1st through 3rd.

Each student had the opportunity to debate with over fifty other delegations, as well as participating along with nearly 700 other speakers in the General Assembly. Each committee demonstrated its own potential during the conference, and each session became stronger and more productive than the last. Several resolutions were brought forward by each committee and delegates were able to successfully pass their respective clauses and amendments.

New acquaintances, connections and learning experiences were constantly acquired and it was a wonderful opportunity for each participant.

Antonio Ramon Buratti - POLITICAL COMMITTEE

The purpose of the PaMUN political committee was to deal with the issues of the State-sponsored cyberterrorism and the South China sea. Both topics divided the opinions of the delegates and were debated with energy, the resolution concerning the South China sea passed with a really slim majority. I personally appreciated the professionalism of the delegates, who represented their country better than I had expected. In fact PaMUN was really more than a UN simulation, it was a meeting between well-motivated and interested in politics students from various international schools, I was definitely proud that our school participated to PaMUN 2017.

Fiorini Davide – ECOSOC

Pamun 2017 ECOSOC's topics were "Ecommerce and Ebanking" and "The cancellation of debt". Both topics were actively discussed and eventually found a great resolution. I really enjoyed the topics we discussed and how we discussed them, I liked that some delegates were really prepared as well. This experience made me understand that we can actually achieve great results during the conference and so I personally encourage the participants to get prepared for their topics to share their opinion.

Fiorini Marta - HUMAN RIGHTS COMMITTEE

Human Rights Committee of PaMun 2017 debated on the question of effectiveness and validity of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR). During the conference each committee had the opportunity to make an update to the articles of the declaration or even propose new articles which could be useful since the world has changed after the adoption of the UDHR in 1948. We eventually succeeded in achieving a relatively satisfying outcome that should improve the whole document. This was my first MUN Conference and, despite the awkwardness about public speaking, I can see the benefits that this experience can give to everyone: being more confident both in the conferences and in normal life.
